Additional comments provided by: Joe Piccione

“Of course the most important thing is for students to meeting academic standards but the focus on standardized testing has been a huge negative for education and students. We should not be defining learning or student success based on a single test. Learning is far more complex and far more important that what a student scores on the PSSAs or Keystones.”

Children First Action Fund is a nonpartisan organization that works to ensure that all children, especially those burdened by poverty and adversity, have the best chance of reaching their full potential. We work on both sides of the aisle, in a non-partisan fashion, to help elected officials learn what it takes for children to succeed and persuade them to support our legislative measures.
